Chapter 10 - Configuring And Securing SSH

Command	Description
sudo systemctl start sshd sudo systemctl enable sshd	to start and enable the SSH service whenever the system boots ssh user1@server_ip	to join the server by user1 systemctl status sshd	to troubleshoot the ssh service ssh keygen	to generate a public or private key to use instead of a password vi /etc/ssh/sshd_config	to change any of the ssh configurations